Spooky Events At the Railway!

There's something strange happening at the Downpatrick Railway Museum this Halloween. There's ghosts on the platforms and ghouls on the train, it can only be the return of Merlin the Magician and the Halloween Ghost Trains!

Anyone who visits on Saturday 30th or Sunday 31st October is in for a double treat. As well as experiencing rail travel at its most traditional, for children who dare to alight at the Forbidden Platform, as well as any brave grown-ups, will be granted an audience with the Great Wizard in his own haunted Grotto train.

If those who dare to enter Merlin's domain pass his tests, then the children will receive a mystical gift.

Doors open from 2pm till 5pm and admission is £4.50 for adults, £5.00 for children who receive a present from Merlin, while it is just £3.50 senior citizens and children who just want to travel on a steam train.

For further information on this event and forthcoming events, please contact the Downpatrick Railway Museum on 077 9080 2049.

Notes to the editor:

This Halloween season also see the return to service of the Railway Museum's Buffet Carriage that has been under restoration for the last three months after a malicious vandal attack in June which caused substantial damage to the vehicle.
